CATALOGUE

Welcome to our November/December catalogue

With the festive period fast approaching, I ventured into Dom's Grotto to get the lowdown on new arrivals down the Infinity chimney, from Infinity's very own little helper.

So, Dom, what's shaking your tree at the moment?
"Well, we're really looking forward to seeing how the new Mr Filbert's products go for us. It's a pretty extensive range of flavoured nuts, crackers and olives so hopefully there will be something to excite most tastebuds.

We met the makers of Chocolate Tree at the recent Natural and Organic Food Show in London and were blown away by the design of the packaging and most importantly, the chocolate itself. It's a really high end product with very cool packaing to match. I think people are going to love it, especially as a Christmas gift.

The new Shroomami Mushroom Ketchup is a bit of a left-field shout but I LOVE it. A deep, flavoursome sauce that you could chuck on anything really. Definitely one to give a try if you like big flavours.

Finally, with winter colds kicking in, the new Lemon and Ginger 'Remidio' Infusion from Agua de Madre is going to be very much in demand.
It's a fermented Lemon and Ginger mix, full of vitamin C and antioxidents so, perfect for staving off those winter chills I'll certainly be keeping a jar in the cupboard!

Have a great Christmas all and see you on the other side of the festivities!"

Welcome...

“Infinity Foods began in 1971 with a small shop in Brighton”

Revolution rarely happens overnight.

Back in 1971, when hair was longer and trousers were considerably wider, a group of friends got together in Brighton with one simple aim: to make good, healthy food available to more people. Food that was organic before most folks knew what that meant. Food you could trust, from people you could talk to.
They opened a shop and called it Infinity Foods. And the rest?
Well, we're still writing that part.

Today, Infinity is one of the UK's biggest providers of organic and natural wholefoods.

Delivering to health stores, cafes, makers or anyone else who wants to try buying in a more sustainable way. From beans, grains and pulses to bodycare and cleaning products. We've got you covered. All of it cruelty free. All of it responsibly sourced.

“Infinity has been a workers Co-operative since 1979”

GOOD STUFF FOR GOOD PEOPLE

..to Infinity

And while we've grown, we've never outgrown our values

We became a workers' cooperative in 1979. Owned and democratically run by the people who work here. That means no shareholders pulling the strings. Just a team that genuinely cares about food, service and doing the right things.

Each year, we work with local charities and community groups, donating tonnes of surplus stock to food banks..
At our huge wholesale warehouse in Shoreham by Sea, we harness solar energy and reuse or recycle everything we can. Even used packaging from local customers.

We've been playing the long game for over 50 years so you can trust we're doing things right.

Our success is a sign that the world is changing

But maybe some things should never change.
And we're working hard to keep some of the old traditions going.

Selling good stuff for good people.

The best quality pulses, grains, nuts and seeds. Fair prices, a friendly face and decent chat. We don't think these things should ever go out of style.

Good stuff for good people....

Ferally Good Festival

Apple crumble so big it needed a blacksmith

> "Would we be willing to help make the world's biggest apple crumble."

Something pretty huge just happened in a field near Glastonbury.

A few weeks ago, the team behind Ferally Good festival got in touch with an exciting proposition. Would we be willing to help them try to make the world's biggest apple crumble? Well, how could we possibly say no? We happily supplied the organic oats for the topping, which is no small job when the crumble in question is big enough to need its own blacksmith!

GOOD STUFF FOR GOOD PEOPLE

“A co-operative that has spent decades championing good, wholesome food,”

As a co-operative that has spent decades championing good, wholesome food, the idea of a crumble made by a whole community, for a whole community, was right up our street.

From the start, it looked set to be a proper family affair. Many hands came together to peel, chop and crumble, with festival-goers of all ages rolling up their sleeves and getting stuck in. There's something wonderfully old-fashioned about gathering around a mountain of apples with friends and strangers alike, and the atmosphere was every bit as warm as the fire it was cooked on.

And what a fire it was. The crumble was cooked over open flames by forager chef Peter 'Chippy' Grant (@thegathererwild) and Callum Brunt (@callum_brunt), who took on the small task of making sure a pudding of truly epic proportions came out golden on top and bubbling underneath. Of course, you can't cook a crumble this size in an ordinary dish.

Blacksmith and carpenter Will Heard (@heardysworkshop) forged the huge metal trays and built a fire-cooking contraption especially for the occasion, which is how a humble apple crumble ended up needing a blacksmith.

The result was a brilliant harvest celebration and a real community-building Venture : made by many, for everyone to eat. Good people, a good dollop of chaos and one massive crumble. We can't think of a better way to welcome in the autumn.

A huge thank you to everyone at Ferally Good (@ferally_good) for letting us be a part of it all. We're already wondering what we might bake next.

Hard work, good vibes and a creative spark: doing things Tom's way

How long have you been with Infinity Foods, and what drew you to work here?

I joined Infinity Foods as temporary part-time staff 14 years ago. My best mate worked here before me and told me how great it was. What really drew me in was its ethics: a genuinely worker-owned cooperative, with no bosses and proper democracy.

Infinity has supported my creative life ever since. They held my job while I took a two-year sabbatical to study theatre design at RADA, then gave me time for theatre work, including Porgy and Bess at the Royal Danish Opera in Copenhagen and Tartuffe at Birmingham Rep. I also play in an indie rock band, The Rapports, and work has supported me with time away for recording and performing gigs and festivals.

> The co-op is full of creatives, designers, artists and musicians, and everyone's up for a good time.

What does a typical working day look like for you?

My days are quite varied, but I spend most of my time in packing, running a large machine that packs rice, lentils and cereals into bags. I help keep the line moving — from getting stock into the hopper and fixing problems with the machine to boxing the finished products for the right department.
I also work with Sam on Infinity Foods Bites, making short vegetarian r ecipe videos and food images for our catalogue covers and website.
And I work with the design team on whatever's needed, from posters and banners to packaging and the website.

What most surprised you when you came to work at Infinity?

How much it feels like a big family of like-minded people.
The co-op is full of creatives, designers, artists and musicians, and everyone's up for a good time. I was also surprised by the freedom and trust people are given. Early on, Infinity let me use the warehouse at night to build sculptures for art projects. Years later, they let my band film a music video there. They supported me through a difficult period when I became a single dad, too. That sort of support stays with you.

Do you have a favourite product or brand on the shelves at Infinity?

Working on the recipes has introduced me to ingredients I might once have walked past. I'm a big fan of miso and tahini because you can do so much with them. Asking me to pick just one is tricky, though.

What did you do last weekend?

After work on Friday, I helped a friend build a kitchen. On Saturday, I took my boy to football practice and watched him play in the sunshine, then met my sister for a few beers that evening. Sunday was a family trip to Drusillas Park or my stepson's birthday. After that, it was home to get everything ready for the week ahead.

What makes you most happy?

Spending time outdoors with my family, especially when we go camping and get off-grid for a bit. I love the whole creative process with The Rapports too — from writing a song and working on it at our weekly rehearsals to hearing the finished recording. At Infinity, I get a real buzz from bringing Sam's recipe ideas to life through videos and food photography, then seeing the photos on our online recipe pages and the front cover of the catalogue.

If you had to eat one meal for the rest of your life and not get bored of it, what would you choose?

A big bowl of rice or quinoa with roasted sweet potato, fresh veg, kimchi, peanuts and a miso-tahini dressing. There'd be enough different flavours and textures to keep me going.

	❋ Shroomami
	New from Shroomami, a vegan black mushroom umami ketchup. Born in shadow. Made to take food into the 5th taste dimension. This deeply savoury black ketchup made with shiitake mushrooms, fermented miso, soy, black treacle, kelp and aromatic spices brings rich flavour to everyday food. Try it with burgers, chips, breakfast baps, eggs, noodles, tacos, hot dogs - or anywhere you would normally reach for ketchup or a savoury sauce. Packed in a glass bottle decorated (it would appear) by someone with more than a passing acquaintance with 1966 Detroit and the MC5. It becomes immediately the best looking product in our range.

What's changed since last time?

On the left-hand side of each page, you'll see a shaded column where you can check what's changed since the last catalogue. We do everything we can to stick to the prices you see on the page, but sometimes events outside our control might mean they have to change. If this happens, we'll be sure to flag it clearly on your invoice.

Want to talk organic?

We label lots of our products as 'organic'. This means an official body, recognised by the EU, has certified the product. If you'd like more information about how this works, drop Charlie ourSoil Association co-ordinator a message at: charles.booth@infinity.coop
